Notes

[1] This was a language translation class; I estimated the amount of words based on the time it took to complete quizzes, homework, and exams that were all turned in.

[2] This class was a hybrid of in-class hand written exams and papers turned in. The written exams were estimates on word count (I'm not silly enough to count out all those words).

[3] This class included re-writes of previously written material. Versions changed enough that I included the re-writes as new documents.

[4] This is a complete guess. I didn't know how to quantify the work I did in Excel, analyzing annual reports and doing weekly homework assignments from the textbook.
